

Creation Tools

Use creation tools to allow students to practice their writing and reading skills. They will take pride in making their projects!

Storybird

<http://storybird.com/>

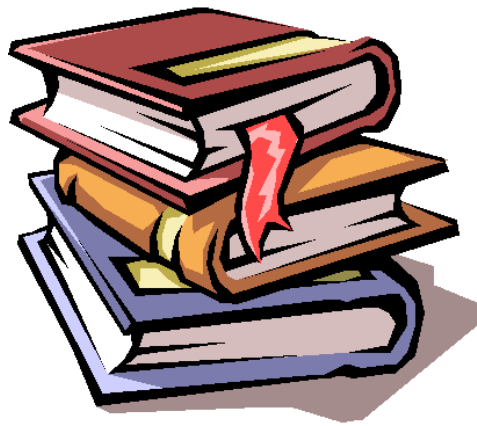

Sign up for a free account so you and your students can create online story books. Students will love reading their own picture books aloud!

Podcasting

<http://audacity.sourceforge.net/>

Download Sourceforge's powerful recording software, Audacity, to start creating your class's own podcasts. You can record your students to document fluency progress throughout the year. Also, consider creating and publishing your own story-time podcast via PodBean so your students can hear fluency modeled.

Do you have questions, comments,
or suggestions?
Are you in need of SOL-specific resources?

Contact us!

Nicole Pfister
niskender@richmond.k12.va.us

Carla Achter
cachter@richmond.k12.va.us

Practicing and Modeling Fluency

An introductory guide to online fluency practice and modeling tools.

Carla Achter, ITRT
Nicole Pfister, ITRT

K12Reader

Reading Instruction Resources
for Teachers & Parents

K12 Reader

<http://www.k12reader.com/>

Visit K12 Reader to find hundreds of printable reading activities that support content area instruction as well as providing leveled reading practice.

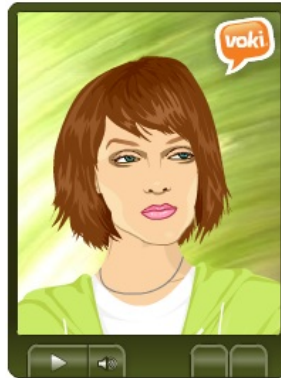

INTERVENTION CENTRAL

Reading Fluency Passage Generator

<http://www.interventioncentral.org/tools/reading-fluency-passage-generator>

Use this free online generator to create customized oral reading fluency assessment passages. This tool will evaluate your passage for readability. Explore other intervention tools this site provides such as letter and number identification, sight words, and math fluency assessment pieces.

MAKE IT TALK!

Voki - Talking Avatars

<http://voki.com/>

Give students the opportunity to practice and evaluate their own fluency. Students can design an animated character, then record a vocal track with corresponding mouth animations. Allow students to listen to their own recordings, or share model performances with the class.

Blabberize

<http://blabberize.com/>

Let students get creative and turn any picture into a talking head. Students can record summaries, reflection pieces, poems, and content-area reports.

MR. YOUNG'S CLASS

Reader's Theater

<http://www.thebestclass.org/>

Peruse the dozens of scripts Mr. Young has to offer by clicking the RT tab. This well organized site also offers links to games as well as Mr. Young's writings on his learning journey.

StoryLine

<http://www.storylineonline.net/>

Choose from 24 books read by the likes of Betty White, Al Gore, and Lou Diamond Phillips. Fluency is modeled for students, and they can follow along with the text and illustrations.

